

Amy Bennetta, CIC, CISR Client Relations Agent Mom of Jake (26)

How did you feel when Deeley took the precaution of sending our office staff home to work remotely?

Thankful – thankful that we work for a company that was ahead of the problem – making sure their employees were safe and able to still work.

What was the most difficult part of working from home.

Isolation. I've always known I was a people person, but wow, this experience has proven to me that I am meant to be in a team environment. That's where I excel.

What did you miss most about the office?

My Standup Desk and my Coworkers. Luckily I was able to move my desk home, not so lucky with the coworkers LOL

How did you stay positive in the challenging quarantine environment?

Video chats – Zoom and FB are wonderful tools. Being able to not only talk to my coworkers, but see their faces really helped.

How do you feel about being back in the office now?

Normal. It's so hard right now to find a little normalcy in our day to day. I find it here, in the office. I feel rejuvenated and productive.

What has been the most surprising thing you learned or discovered during the pandemic/quarantine situation?

I can dance in my living room all by myself – like no one is watching – because they aren't LOL

If you had to quarantine again starting tomorrow, what would you do differently this time?

See my son – I miss him.
